

Managed Detection and Response Services

Integrity360 is a leading Managed Detection and Response (MDR) provider and the only Gartner recognised MDR provider in Ireland and just one of four in the UK.

Industry-Leading Detection & Response Tools

Integrity360 offers MDR Services that utilise the latest Detection and Response tools, including Endpoint Detection and Response (EDR), Network Detection and Response (NDR), and Security Information and Event Management (SIEM). By integrating these tools with our security expertise, we can proactively protect you from both internal and external threats.

Proactive Threat Hunting

Our unique approach stands out from other providers as we proactively hunt for threats within a customer's environment, integrating with enforcement points like identity, perimeter, and endpoint for quick containment response in the event of an active threat. MDR is a managed security service designed to detect and contain threats that have bypassed preventative security controls.

Cost Effective

Our MDR solution is cost-effective and provides a comprehensive level of protection against the latest cyber threats.

If you are a CISO or cyber security manager looking to improve your organisation's cyber security posture, then our MDR solution is one that you should consider.

The benefits of our MDR service include:

- Rapid response and containment of critical threats - reduced meantime to detection and response
- Risk mitigation through Improved Threat Detection and Response Capability

- Taking a load off the in-house security team
- Reducing and predicting the cost of security monitoring and response
- Strategic partnership to support and advise on continuous improvement in security posture
